[YouTube Description:]

"Dr. Sherri Tenpenny obliterates the #CoronaPanic mass hysteria whipped up around this supposed new virus that is, according to mainstream media, the WHO, and gullible governments destined to decimate millions and destroy the world. Taking a close look at the testing being done and the numbers of deaths being reported, she details how the tests—nasal or throat swabs—are designed only to indicate a broad range of influenza viruses and are not in any way indicative of the presence of a particular SARS-CoV-2 virus. Further, and as a consequence, the figures for both number of infected cases and deaths are necessarily FALSE. They have no way of testing for this virus, how can they add numbers to a list? In addition, the figures for the infections and deaths are far less than those for the flu, yearly, worldwide, and a host of other diseases. Finally, even the current figures note that 86% recover from this COVID-19 illness, while the 14% who don't are found to have co-morbidities or underlying other illnesses, which takes us back to that issue of the number of deaths from this particular virus simply inevitably being wrongfully and falsely reported. Meanwhile, legislation set in place in 2005—the PREP ACT—and the recent declaration of a National Emergency from President Trump set in place the context for pushing through vaccine mandates – so this is indeed a serious situation which warrants close attention from all and immediate action. The strictures regarding “social distancing” and wearing masks will not work to curb a common flu virus, says Dr. Tenpenny. Are these being put in place now to push humanity toward greater online connectivity and less human interaction? Discussing the flu shot, Dr.Tenpenny notes that immunity is not built through vaccinations, which are filled with polluting ingredients which increase immune system burden and often confer the very disease they claim to immunize and protect from. How does one react in this scenario, what should people be doing? Dr.Tenpenny suggests that we do need to be concerned and outspoken about any kind of legislation seeking to curb our rights and liberties further while at the same time “making lemons out of lemonade” by using the time we now have through being shut-in to work on our favorite, long-shelved home projects as she too hopes to do. The truth about what is going on, the fact that political globalist agenda underlies this mass global shutdown and panic-churning is perhaps the most important thing to uncover currently. Transhumanism is part of the plan, and it behooves all of humanity to do the research, ask questions, express opinions, and work continuously to reclaim our lives, claim our rights—and stay away from the contamination and danger of vaccines."

[What follows is a partial transcript of the interview:]

Sherry said: "I've been sitting back & watching this whole pandemic unfold. I have a fairly large audience." She has 275k friends on Facebook & thousands on Instagram. Her website is vaxxter.com. She was getting requests about what the coronavirus. Lots of conflicting information. Says this happened with SARS in 2002; closed public schools, masks, quarantine. In 2005 it was H5N1 Bird Flu; it was the same thing then in 2005, only then it was about the birds. Then in 2009 "we had swine flue, H1N1, we did the same thing all over again. It started in pigs. We had all this hysteria. We fast-tracked vaccines ... that caused Narcolepsy, permanent brain damage. Even though there was a 1.6% fatality rate, just like now. So this is round 4, what we're doing all over again with this SARS/COVID-2 virus." She wrote a report, *How Soon We Forget*, that explains this. She says this group of coronaviruses have been around for 60 years. "There are 36 different [corona] viruses. 4 of them have been know to cause infection for a long time. So, when they started all this stuff about testing, I was like what are they testing for? Screen tests are not specific enough to differentiate between any of those 36 strains of viruses. And if people are positive, what does that mean? Does that mean they have an active infection, an infection in the past? Does that mean they have an active infection of one of the common strains that have been around for 60 years?" Regarding the purpose of the tests she said: "They're collecting our DNA; they're definitely doing that." Ramola asked if it is likely most of us have one of these viruses that have been around for 60 years. Dr. Tenpenny: "It's likely that all of us have had some exposure to a coronavirus & have probably had an infection by the coronavirus somewhere in your lifetime. ... Of the 36 known coronaviruses out there, there are 4 that generally cause illness, & have been causing illness for the last 60 years. We are creating massive hysteria with no data." Ramola said this was a novel strain so it might be different than ones around for last 60 years. Sherry responded "a nasal swap ain't gonna do it. ... A nasal swap is just a screening test... The nasal swap is like 'do you have coronavirus? Yes you do.' Well which one do you have?" In order to really distinguish this it would have to be another level of testing that most are not doing "& they're not collating the data. The scientists looking at the reporting of this are saying 'we don't have accurate data'. Now, if a person is very sick & they are in the hospital, & they have all the ARDS, all the respiratory things that are going on, & they swab one of those things in the hospital, then chances are they're going to be positive, & they will go on & do PCR testing or sub-typing in the hospital. But general community-wide screening, at least so far, they're not doing that." She says she got a notification from the CDC about how to document a death certificate. "And the CDC's new recommendation is, if someone is in the hospital with with a respiratory issue & they die, even if you have not tested them or if you did test them & they were not positive, you are supposed to write on the death certificate COVID-19 as a co-morbidity. ... This is an open deception, right straight from the Ohio Medical Board. ... If you suspect that it was COVID-19, put COVID-19 on the death certificate. ... That's driving the numbers to maintain the agenda." Sherri continued: "There's a couple of things that have been instilled into the psyche of the global population. When they very first started using the words 'social distancing' the first thing I said ... 'do you understand the PsyOps with that?' They didn't just say 'physical distancing' they said 'social distancing.' That's part of the lexicon globally. ... Social distancing, & being 6 feet away, & don't touch people. And what has that done to humanity? Because humans are social creatures. ... We are social by nature, we like to hug & kiss & touch, & high-five—that's part of who we are. And suddenly there's this 'social distancing'?"
